

Lee Juggurnauth

Broadcaster & High Profile Unicef Supporter

Lee Juggurnauth is a well-known TV and radio broadcaster who began his career in 2020 on Channel 4's award-winning show, A Place in the Sun. Since then, he has appeared on various other programs, including Celebrity Lingo, Soccer Aid, Tipping Point, and The One Percent Club, while also regularly contributing to "Good Morning Britain."

As a high-profile supporter of UNICEF, Lee has dedicated the last five years raising awareness and helping vulnerable children around the world. He frequently visits schools across London to mentor young students on the importance of diversity, equality, and using their voices.

Lee continues to evolve as a broadcaster, with exciting projects on the horizon.